RED CROSS MEETING OF EXECUTIVE BOARD HELD WEDNESDAY, 4TH

Production Department To Begin Work On Garments—
Starting of First Aid Classes in County Discussed—
Other Important Matters Taken Up.

With the receipt of part of the new production quota materials, the Production Committee of the Hancock Chapter of the American Red Cross is ready to begin work on garments which will make up its new quota.

At the Executive Board meeting held on last Wednesday, among the subjects discussed were the difficulties encountered in getting first aid classes started in the rural sections and it was decided to enlist the aid of the Board of Supervisors and school teachers in the rural districts in assembling classes with not less than ten persons in attendance to take first aid.

The problem of conveying trucks into ambulances for emergency needs was also discussed and this was referred to the chairman of the Disaster Relief Committee.

Ways and means for assisting soldiers and soldiers' families who are in distress and among whom new problems in home service have developed were planned.

The local chapter is in receipt of word from headquarters at Washington that there will be no roll call in November, this is an effort to relieve in some measure the work of people engaged in raising money in many other ways. Also because the community chest drives are usually put on in the autumn, and it is deemed more advisable to postpone the annual roll call until the spring of 1943 when the Red Cross, through its 2547 chapters, will endeavor to raise a quota of $65,000,000.

Comments 50th Edition Of The Sea Coast Echo

An excerpt from the Vicksburg Evening Post comments the fiftieth anniversary edition of the Sea Coast Echo in these words:

"It was good in Powell P. Smith to send me a copy of the fiftieth anniversary edition of the Sea Coast Echo, newspaper of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, where Mr. and Mrs. Smith now reside in their own home at 1104 North Beach Boulevard. Often out-of-Vicksburg special editions are not interesting to me, but this paper from Bay St. Louis is an exception. It is a bound-and-stapled tabloid edition, full of truly interesting photographs, old and new, and almost every article made more absorbing and picturesque by unique French and Spanish names. There are many photographs of homes along fashionable Beach Boulevard on which Mr. and Mrs. Powell Smith reside.

BAY HIGH CLASS A CHAMPIONS

To Play In District Tour-namment To Be Held at Hattiesburg, 20-21st.

Bay St. Louis High's newly crowned Class A Champions won the right to enter the district tournament at Hattiesburg by eliminating Woolmark in the A and B class playoff here Friday afternoon. Coach Clay Boyd's Tigers went on to defeat Dedeaux in the finals for the playoff trophy by a 33 to 27 score.

Dedeaux had beaten St. Stanislaus 30 to 18 to reach the finals.

The Bay High lads had a close game with Woolmark until the last five minutes when they suddenly got hot to drop in eleven points. In the night cap against Dedeaux, winners of four tournaments this year, the Tigers took the lead in the first quarter and were never headed thereafter. They had 13-14 advantage at the half.

Coach Boyd has two weeks to get his team on razor edge for the district tournament which will be held March 20-21 in the Hattiesburg gymnasium.

The Bay High quintette has shown a steady improvement throughout the season and seemed to reach their peak in the recent Gulf Coast Class A tournament. The Tigers defeated Long Beach, Gulf Coast Military Academy and St. Stanislaus to carry off top honors in this tournament. They played their best game this year against the Cadets trouncing them by a 55 to 34 score. If the Bay High team can play the same brand of ball in the district tournament, they will certainly give a good account of themselves.

Dedeaux and Bay High in the boys division and Success and Savannah's girl teams will represent the Gulf Coast region in the district tournament.

Delivers Sermon At DeLisle Church

It is reported that the Rev. Waters preached at DeLisle Thursday, March 12 a most remarkable sermon on Procrastination. It was brief like the sermons of St. Augustine and the homilies of St. John Chrysostom and he had his audience spell bound. This is really the triumph of the real orator.

Procrastination is a big word, very fittingly it describes a big power of human life. The most uncertain thing in life is not death—Death is the next certain. It's circumstances are uncertain. The most uncertain thing is to-morrow. We are sure only on the present. Second, Now should take care of the soul, not in the uncertain time but now. We see many things in the lives of others, the sad consequences of people who procrastinate. Now, the present second is the only certain course of time we bow.

Despite the awful weather, there was a good attendance, this is the best mark of the DeLisle Catholicity.

OUR POLICY

THE Sea Coast Echo celebrated its Golden Jubilee on January 9th, 1942. It was founded, edited and published by the Honorable Chas. G. Moreau for a period of fifty years. However, God in his wisdom saw fit to take him to his reward just a few weeks prior to the completion of the Golden Jubilee Edition of The Sea Coast Echo, which he had maintained such high hopes of living to see it published.

Mr. Moreau, did a great work for Bay St. Louis and Hancock County in general in the publication of The Sea Coast Echo. We who knew him best, feel that his place will never be filled. Through these many years he established an edifice of profound good will, high ideals and an intelligent and unbiased trend of thought. His sole aim was to publish a newspaper that would help build the community which it serves.

We shall endeavor to maintain these high standards of newspaper publication established by the former editor, and quoting from his Golden Jubilee Edition: "Our aim has ever been to construct, to build and to mold such public opinion that would prove a betterment both to the community and its citizens. We have striven to contribute to every worthwhile endeavor."

This policy shall continue in the publication of The Sea Coast Echo.

HEAVY NAVAL FIGHTING

THE naval battles in the Far East, especially the engagement in Macassar Strait and the fights in the Java Sea, represent naval warfare in its bitterest form.

Weaker forces of the United Nations, including some warships of the United States, have been hopelessly outnumbered but they have resolutely engaged the enemy. Losses are uncertain but that both sides suffered severely is apparent from the nature of the conflict.

The sinking of American warships, in the Atlantic and the Pacific, together with the loss of tankers and freighters along our coast, serves notice upon the American people that war is not a parlor pastime.

When the nation uses its navy, ships will be sunk and men will be lost. It is a bloody business but risks must be dared if victories are to be won.

GARLAND RIFLE MAKES GOOD

IN 1936, after years of controversy and many tests, our authorities on small arms adopted the Garland rifle.

Word from General MacArthur, on Bataan Peninsula, is that the rifle has proved itself "excellent" in combat. It is superior to the older Springfield and develops no mechanical defects under combat operations. When used in fox-holes, it did not clog from dust and dirt and, in instances, some of the rifles were in constant action for as much as a week without cleaning or lubrication.

The great advantage of the Garland rifle is that it fires eight shots, with the user simply pulling the trigger for each shot. The soldier does not have to bring his rifle off the target by handling a bolt between each shot. It is a labor-saving device with the recoil doing the work. It almost doubles the firing efficiency of an infantryman.

WITHOUT HEADLINES

HERE'S war without headlines: A navy bomber crashed in the South Pacific in January. Three enlisted fliers sailed hundreds of miles in a tiny rubber lifeboat, drifting more than a month.

Exposed to equatorial sun, they saved their lives by catching rainwater and eating birds and fish they caught. Eventually, they reached an atoll and then returned safely to an operating base. After a short rest, they will return to duty.

NEW DISCOVERY

IT HAS been announced from New Orleans that the best plastics are now being made from sugar cane, after it has gone through the mill and given up its sweetness. This opens a new source of revenue to Mississippi farmers.

LOWEST PER CAPITA TAX

A REPORT just published from Washington quotes the Bureau of Census as stating in a public record that Mississippi has the lowest per capita collection of state taxes of any other state. The 1941 collection of state taxes in Mississippi being $16.65 per capita.

WILLKIE MAY VISIT STATE

A TELEPHONE message from Hon. Wendell Willkie in New York last week informs the Legislature that he is making an effort to come to Mississippi and address a joint session before adjournment.

The proposition to suspend football and other inter-collegiate sports for the duration of the war is now up for a decision by the college board and will probably be decided this week.

MARRIED OFFICERS WANTED

WITH the fast growth of the Army comes the increasing demand for more officers. The Army needs 75,000 additional officers this year.

Army leaders are meeting this demand in a very practical way. They are attempting to persuade young married men to enter the Army as privates with the assurance that they may stand the examination for admittance into Officers Training School.

Most married men would hesitate to enlist because a private's pay check is not large enough to support a wife, and there would be the chance that they would not be selected as an officer.

However, John J. McCoy, Assistant Secretary of War, in a recent speech pointed out that the Army will now accept the enlistment of men with dependents for the sole purpose of getting a commission. If the enlistee is not accepted as an officer by the Army, he may return to civil life and not be subject to military call until persons in his classification are subject to call by local draft boards.

Now, young married men who wish to serve the country, but at the same time have the responsibility of supporting someone, may join the Army with the assurance that if they are not selected as officers they may return to civil life.

QUITTING IS UN-AMERICAN

ONE illustration of what should not happen during the war is the resignation of twenty-eight air raid wardens in the City of Washington.

These civilian volunteers were dissatisfied with the way their organization was being run and with inability to get the equipment that they desired.

It may be that these little Americans would be satisfied if the President, Admiral King and General Marshall would forget other matters and see that they are supplied with whistles, arm-bands, ropes, handbooks, etc.

A fitting comment comes from Colonel Lemuel L. Bolles, head of the Office of Civilian Defense in Washington, who remarked that "there are a number of men under MacArthur in the Philippines who are not resigning and who are not getting equipment either."

Civilians in the United States must understand that this is their war. They should not expect a cake-walk. They must endure privation if the nation is to win. The quitting spirit is un-American, regardless of difficulties, large or small.

TIRED OF "DEFENSE"

MOST Americans will applaud the declaration of Wendell L. Willkie that he is "tired of hearing of defense effort, and defense rallies, and even defense bonds."

The time has come for us to assume an aggressive attitude and to prepare ourselves psychologically for striking at the enemy wherever he may happen to be.

Certainly, Americans should not expect to win this war on the defensive. This means for us to lock ourselves in the United States and wait for Great Britain, Russia and China to beat our enemies. After all, let us keep in mind the fact that Japan declared war on the United States and notified us of her belligerency by a treacherous attack upon Pearl Harbor.

We cannot meet such aggression by waiting for the Japanese to wear themselves out in the Far East. While it may not be what we preferred, it is nevertheless our national duty to teach the Japanese a lesson that they cannot learn until some Americans give a demonstration of military efficiency in Tokyo.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

IN every way there is a sharp rise in the number of crimes committed by the youth of a nation. America will be no exception, if the people of this country don't do something to prevent such an unpleasant condition.

The fact that juvenile delinquency in Great Britain is up about 50 per cent should startle us Americans into action.

Delinquencies are usually the result of having nothing to do. If this is true the people of the United States should keep all worthy organizations alive. They should endeavor to establish community centers, or any recreation headquarters that will keep young people off the street.

Parents should strive to strengthen family ties and make the home a happier place in which to live. It is also important that fathers are not drafted; they can do more good in their own home. Mother's place is also in the home. It is just as important that she build morale in her own home as it is to help build it on the outside.

TRAFFIC DEATHS INCREASE

EXACTLY 3,140 Americans died in traffic accidents in January, according to the National Safety Council, which says this is an increase of seven per cent over January, 1941.

The increase occurred despite curtailment of automobiles and tires. Despite this, there seems to have no decrease in automobile travel in January.

Just how many people will be killed, per month, when automobiles become worn and tires unsafe, no one can predict. Every person, however, can exercise caution and care in connection with the operation of his, or her vehicle.

MAY NOT SEE GERMANY AGAIN

A SWEDISH news dispatch says that Reich Fuehrer Hitler has taken a vow never again to set foot on Reich German territory until the last Russian unit has been annihilated.

While nobody is justified in believing anything that Herr Hitler says, the report is interesting. If the Nazi leader carries out his promise, there seems to be little prospect that he will ever see Germany again. The Russians are going to town.

The best time to think about preventing automobile accidents is while you are driving your own vehicle.

Congressional Sidelights

Congressman Wm. M. Colmer

Streamlining The Army

To make possible faster, better coordinated military action, the President by Executive Order, has streamlined the War Department by setting three basic units under the Army Chief of Staff: (1) Army Ground Forces, (2) Army Air Forces, (3) Army Services of Supply, each under a commanding general. Heretofore, there has been much conflict in authority and much petty jealousy arising from the fact that each branch of the service was complete unit within itself. For example, there was a Chief of Cavalry, a Chief of Coast Artillery, a Chief of Infantry. Now all of these will be combined under the Commanding General of the Army Ground Forces. The reorganization will also give the Air Force a more important place.

Men With Dependents Can Volunteer As Officer Candidates

Class III-A registrants, those who are presently deferred for dependency and who could not serve for any length of time on a private's pay without their dependents suffering, can now make application thru their local boards as Volunteer Officer Candidates. Those accepted will serve for four months, and if not chosen at the end of that period as officer candidates, they may request relief from active duty and will be transferred to the Enlisted Reserve, to be called for active duty when and if Class III-A registrants are called for induction. In order to be eligible as a Volunteer Officer Candidate a registrant must be qualified for classification in I-A with the exception of dependency, must be a citizen, and must be qualified for training and a subsequent commission in the Army.

Votes for Service Men

A bill is pending in the House looking to restoring the privilege to men in the armed forces of voting an absentee ballot. The bill provides, among other things that "No person in military service shall be denied the right to vote in any general, special or primary election solely by reason of his absence from the state or political subdivision thereof at the time of registration or at the time of such election." It would also provide that poll taxes would not be necessary in such cases. There is some question as to whether such a bill would be constitutional, or not where it affects the State primary. Mississippi had an absentee ballot during the last war, but because of alleged abuse this was discontinued in Mississippi some years ago. We have never thought it within our province as a national legislator to attempt to interfere or meddle with the State Legislature. But we should like to respectfully call the attention of this matter to the members of the Mississippi State Legislature.

Another Thin Line

One of the questions most frequently asked over the entire United States is why do the allies not concentrate their forces in some one place for a knockout blow against either Japan or Germany? That question could have been just as appropriately asked a year ago so far as England was concerned. The answer, of course, is that the Allies are trying to protect a large portion of the world. The British Empire is spread out to the point that is best illustrated by the statement that "The sun never sets on the British Empire." England is a small country within itself. It is trying to protect its possessions over the entire world. The United States has joined England in that undertaking. The result is that the English and United States navies and armed forces are spread so thin in an effort to protect these possessions that when one of them is struck by a blitzkrieg of the totalitarian powers we do not have enough forces there to resist them. For instance, we have the sad spectacle of the Dutch East Indies falling to Japan. This happened not because Japan is more powerful than the Dutch, British and American forces but it happened because our forces are spread out so thin that Japan ran roughshod over them by concentrating their forces. This can better be understood when it is realized that it requires four months for a round trip by ship from America to the Dutch East Indies. Until we can produce enough of the materials of warfare and enough ships to transport these materials to these far-flung possessions this condition will continue. Then and not until then will we be able to go on the offensive. But when that time comes we will be proud of the striking forces of our Army, Navy and Air Force. In the meantime, we must not get the "jitters."

PILOTS

It has been estimated by the American Association for the Advancement of Science that the War Department will need a minimum of 150,000 pilots this year, and 225,000 additional pilots in 1943.

School Children Can Help In Defense

The protection of our towns and communities and especially of our children from the hazards of war is a problem in the forefront of all our minds just now. There are several ways in which the schools can help in this matter.

Instruction should be given to the children as to the safest place in the building and drills should be held to allow them to pass to such place without confusion. Full instructions for these drills is provided in posters furnished by the State Office of Civilian Defense.

Children traveling by school bus and bus drivers should be instructed exactly what to do in case an air raid should occur while they are in transit.

Schools can promote community forums to discuss plans for cooperative community action for civil protection. Many speakers in various parts of the state have offered their services to lead such discussions. The senior and junior colleges and many of the high schools have lists of these speakers. These speakers have been supplied with definite information approved by the State Office of Civilian Defense dealing with plans for county and community organizations for this purpose. In communities that have not fully organized, the schools are urged to cooperate with county civilian defense organizations by helping to make this information available to all of the people.

Further information relative to forum speakers will be gladly supplied by M. C. McDaniel, forum supervisor of the adult education program.

The government's printing bill for sugar rationing stamps and other literature pertaining to the rationing program is over $5,000,000.

Tires Won't Last Forever Even If Car Stays at Home

A motorist who tries to save his tires by banning automobile trips not only is fooling himself but cheating himself of necessary relaxation from the strain of everyday life. When driving moderately they will last as long from four to eight hundred miles per month—as they will if the car is idle in the garage or backyard. Two or three shorter motor trips will take the place of extended touring vacations this year. Tires cannot last forever.

Waveland basketball team played Lakeshore on Monday, the score was as follows:

Waveland boys, 20 Lakeshore boys 13; Waveland girls 6, Lakeshore girls, 3.

Mrs. Chas. Schwartz and baby daughter are at home in Clermont having been dismissed from the King's Daughters Hospital in Gulfport.

The students of Waveland and Gulfview schools no longer sing the first verse of the "Star Spangled Banner" because in the words of their instructor, "We all know that the Star Spangled Banner still waves."

"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY" SUNDAY-MONDAY AT A. & G.

Richard Llewellyn's Famous Novel Was Directed by John Ford; Has Impressive Cast

At long last the dramatization of Richard Llewellyn's best-selling novel, "How Green Was My Valley," is brought to the screen by 20th Century-Fox under the able production genius of Darryl F. Zanuck. Here is the film that has been eagerly awaited and from the accounts of preview audiences it promises to fulfill the expectations of the most discriminating motion picture fan.

The keynote of this production which is due to open Sunday at the A. & G. Theater is the fidelity of its portrayal to the novel of the same name. Laid against the colorful background of a Welsh mining village, "How Green Is My Valley" brings to life the dynamic characters who captivated the over five million people who read the outstanding book.

Seen through the eyes of the youngest member of the family—Huw Morgan—"How Green Is My Valley" traces the threads of life of the Morgan family over a period of years—revealing their trials and loves—their joys and sorrows. It's the brave story of a family never conquered, not by armed men or hardship, hunger or hate—not by the turbulent years that stole the greenness from their valley.

The featured cast is said to take able command of the opportunity to knit together a story that demanded highly specialized dramatic ability. Walter Pidgeon, cast as Mr. Gruffydd, the minister, is said to cap his career with a splendid performance. Beauteous Maureen O'Hara portrays Angharad, the lovely Morgan daughter, who captivates the pastor. Anna Lee in the role of Bronwen is modest and lovable—the epitome of womanhood, while Donald Crisp as Gwylm Morgan, the father, is firm yet kindly.

Young Roddy McDowall, the 12-year-old English actor whose ascent to stardom has been spectacular, portrays the role of young Huw—shy, impressionable and courageous, full of faith and hope.

A carefully chosen supporting cast includes John Loder as Ianto, one of the Morgan sons, Sara Allgood as the lovable mother, Barry Fitzgerald as Cyfartha, one of the villagers, and Patric Knowles in the role of Ivor, another of the Morgan sons.

ORTIE THEATER SUNDAY-MONDAY "PARIS CALLING"

Starring Randolph Scott, Basil Rathbone, Elizabeth Bergner

Modern melodrama on a grand scale. That is a description in brief of the new Universal film, "Paris Calling," which will be presented at the Ortie Theater Sunday and Monday.

In this, her first Hollywood production, Elizabeth Bergner reaches lofty cinematic heights. The star of such international film hits as "Escape Me Never" and "Catherine the Great" portrays a role specifically tailored to her talents. As the fiancée of Basil Rathbone in the opening scenes, she is the wealthy hostess who entertains the aristocrats of France in her home on the eve of the invasion. When she learns her country has been betrayed, Miss Bergner becomes part of the underground front.

She is assigned to play the piano in a third rate cabaret in a seacoast village. In this role her dramatic ability is given full exposition.

Randolph Scott, as the American aviator in the R. A. F. left behind after the evacuation, who is befriended by and falls in love with Miss Bergner, does one of the best acting jobs of his career. His efforts to escape capture gives the plot much of its impetus.

The supporting members of the imposing cast all are well selected for their roles. Gale Sondergaard as the proprietress of the cafe and Edward Cline, as the bartender, both members of the underground conspiracy, do outstanding work.

Many Bills on Calendars

The Legislature now in its third month of work is making a hard drive for an early adjournment, and in the past few days has passed many bills. It is certain, however, that adjournment will not be reached at the end of this week and not likely to be by the 21st, as suggested by members of the Senate, but it is almost certain that the work will be finished before the end of March. The two houses have many bills, some of vast importance, pending on their calendars to be disposed of before the close of the session. Some of the more important bills on the House calendar are: Abolish State Hospital Commission—Counties where State Charity Hospitals located to levy certain tax. Weekly Book Review

"PIED PIPER" by NEVIL SHUTE
Reviewed by Mrs. Caroline Dale Snedeker

The author of the "Pied Piper" is Nevil Shute who is a Lieutenant Commander now attached to the admiralty in London.

The book is written in bold, modern style and has breathless adventures and escapes.

The story concerns an old gentleman, John Howard, who starts from the eastern border of France to go home to England. He has been asked by some friends to take their children on the journey. Very early in the trip the Germans invade France and traveling becomes universally difficult.

Before long John Howard is walking the road and sleeping in barns. On the way he runs across pitiful deserted children, and each of these he takes with him until he has the care of seven. At Chartres he meets Nicole, his son's fiancée who helps to get him to the port of Brest. Here the most terrifying adventures take place.

The book has a happy ending. Or perhaps we should say fortunate ending. Happiness is not easy to come by in the war zone.

The character of John Howard is tender, beautiful and brave and has been called one of the finest in literature.

Don't miss reading this exciting story which you will find in the library.

First Aid Class Completed

A Standard Red Cross First Aid course, under instruction of Mrs. Joseph R. Scharif and Mrs. L. S. Elliott, was completed Wednesday, March 11th.

Those fulfilling the twenty hours requirement and eligible for certificates are Mesdames E. S. Baker, Wallace Bontemps, A. M. Ellison, Horace Farr, Frank Kiefer, Max N. Kohler, C. C. Riddle, C. C. McDonald, C. M. Shipp, and J. B. Goldman.

COST

It has been estimated that over 13 billion dollars will be spent for war purposes during the five month period ending on June 30th of this year. This compares with the 16 billion spent in the seven months ending on January 30, 1942. Administration leaders have pointed out that war production must increase 30 per cent in the next four months if the goal of 5 billion a month by the end of the year is to be achieved.

SHIPS

Experiments with the revolutionary form of ocean freighters known as the "Sea Otter" have, for the time being proved this ship to be useless. President Roosevelt and Navy Secretary Knox had hoped that this ship would be the answer to mass production without using materials critical to other defense needs.

The Federal Security Agency trained 1,800,000 men and women for war production work in the seven months period ending last January 30th. This is 300,000 more than it trained in the entire fiscal year ending June 30, 1941.
